

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Public airways should not be allowed to be used in this highly biased way that does not respect our democracy. This is the best case against media consolidation.

The best and most relevant news is local news. Our democracy needs to be nurtured by journalism, not suffocated by forced programming to fulfill a political aim.

Sinclair's actions show why we must strengthen media ownership rules and not weaken them.

Sinclair's proposed action is not in the public good, and should not be sanctioned by the FCC.
